DETAILED ACTION

Acknowledgment of Papers Received: Preliminary Amendment dated 1/11/02.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 3, and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wong (USPN 5,492,904). The claims are drawn to a tablet comprising fosinopril sodium and a lubricant where the lubricant is stearic acid. The tablet further comprises lactose.

Wong et al discloses a tablet comprising fosinopril sodium, lactose stearic acid (col. 4, lin. 30 – 58). These disclosures render the claims anticipated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

Art Unit: 1615

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claims 2 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wong (USPN 5,492,904) in view of Sjoerdsma (USPN 4,189,492). The claims are drawn to tablet formulation comprising fosinopril sodium, and a lubricant. The lubricant is recited as zinc stearate.

As discussed above Wong discloses fosinopril sodium tablet comprising stearic acid as a lubricant. The formulation further comprises lactose. What is lacking in the reference is a disclosure of zinc stearate as a lubricant.

Sjoerdsma discloses an anti-hypertensive tablet formulation where zinc stearate is used to lubricate the formulation (col. 4, lin. 28 – 30). It would be obvious to a skilled artisan to use the zinc stearate in order to lubricate the granules of the tablet formulation and improve stability.

With regard to claim 7, which discloses specific concentrations of the lubricant, it is the position of the examiner that these concentrations do not impart patentability on the claims. The art presents a general combination of lubricant and fosinopril sodium. It has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation. See In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955).

Furthermore the claims differ from the reference by reciting various concentrations of the active ingredient(s). However, the preparation of various cosmetic compositions having various amounts of the active is within the level of skill of one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention. It has also been held that the mere selection of proportions and ranges is not patentable absent a showing of criticality. See In re Russell, 439 F.2d 1228 169 USPQ 426 (CCPA 1971).

With this in mind it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to substitute the lubricant of Sjoerdsma in order to lubricate the tablet formulation and improve stability. A skilled artisan would have been motivated to modify the formulation presented in order to optimize the delivery of the active agent. It would have been obvious to combine and optimize the formulations of the prior art with the expected result of an anti-hypertensive tablet formulation with improved stability.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Seymour (USPN 5,225,401), Sudilovsky (USPN 4,912,096 and 4,977,145) disclose tablet formulation of fosinopril sodium including lactose and lubricants.
